“ I will always remember him as a boy skateboarding or on his bike going down Circle Blvd. when he was younger. As he got older, the fireworks would go shooting off at dark. I'll miss these little things like the fireworks! You were a spark in everyone's life, and the thing is, he probably never even knew it! Rest In Sweetest Peace Brett!

“ I was recently stuck at home sick with a stomach bug. Brett called me to hangout and when I told him how I was feeling, he felt bad and asked if I needed anything. Willing to drive all the way to my house to drop me off ginger ale. It just shows the type of person he was. He was always a great friend and he always knew how to pick my head up when I was down. Freshman year, I went to senior weekend in wildwood for my first time Brett. We stuck together the whole time. It was one of the best times of my life and I won't ever forget it. I've had countless good memories with him and I'm beyond grateful for every last one of them. It kills me to say goodbye so soon, I wish we could of gone to punta cana like we planned this spring:(Prayers go out to you and your family. RIP
