“ Dotty asked a lot of questions, usually when she sensed decisions an individual was making, made no sense. The difference between her and my Dad's approach on this were quite different with the same result. Dot would make it look like righting the ship was Your idea through her questions and Your answers. She would either smile with dimples while nodding her head, or purse her lips frowning while shaking her head, depending on whether You got it or not. My Dad, everyone else's Uncle David tended to impose his will in his beliefs when straightening a loved one out. Both of them acheived the same result, ha ha. I Love my family, I Love the McMasters, I Love the Parks, I Love Dotty, may her, my Dad, and the rest of the McMaster's memories live on forever.

I wish all the love and prayers to the best mother-in-law a girl could ever ask for. I will always remember that laugh of yours. I will remember all the jokes that my husband will tell and I'll know exactly where he got them. I so loved the fact that you took me under your wing and invited me into your family with just barely knowing me. I will miss all our phone calls. I love and will miss you very much, Doris. Please say hi to my mom and dad when you get there. Love Carol
